Join us for the launch of the University of Sussex’s Centre for Poverty and Inequality Research

Guest speaker

Martin Ravallion
Research Director of the World Bank

Growth and Poverty Revisited

Friday 23 November 2012
4pm-5.30pm
Jubilee Lecture Theatre

Refreshments follow from 5.30pm

For further information please contact Paul Segal p.segal@sussex.ac.uk
The Centre for Poverty and Inequality Research will conduct research into all aspects of inequality and poverty – their meaning and measurement, causes and consequences, in both developing and developed countries.

Building on the rich history of the former Poverty Research Unit at Sussex (PRUS), CPIR brings together researchers across the University of Sussex, and aims to create partnerships with governments, international organisations, other academic institutions and NGOs.

CPIR will draw on the interdisciplinary approach and values that Sussex embodies to generate impact through world-class research.

Paul Segal, Director